"Life is a Gift from God. The Church's teaching on the dignity of human life is clear. "Human life" states the Catechism of the Catholic Church, "must be respected and protected absolutely from the moment of conception. From the first moment of his existence, a human being must be recognized as having the rights of a person, among which is the inviolable right of every innocent being to life."

Food For Thought

The Seventh FluteThe Christophers, Vol. 47,
Three Minutes a Day, Aug. 19

Preacher William L. Stidger once told a story about the conductor Walter Damrosch who stopped his orchestra when everything was apparently going along smoothly. He asked, "Where is the seventh flute?" As Stidger points out, the conductor didn't ask for the first flute, or the second flute – but the seventh. Even the seventh flute had an important role in creating the harmony the leader desired. The lesson, Stidger explained: "We may feel inferior, untalented, not beautiful and some of us uneducated. But each of us has a part to play and should play it well." He tells how he used to watch the man who plays the triangle in a large orchestra. Often the player would sit through the entire number. Eagerly waiting. Then, toward the close, he would, with perfect timing, deftly strike the instrument and produce just the right note. In other words, there is no unimportant job. Whatever your part is in this world, do it well

St. Augustine of Canterbury

At the end of the sixth century anyone would have said that Augustine had found his niche in life. Looking at this respected prior of a monastery, almost anyone would have predicted he would spend his last days there, instructing, governing, and settling even further into this sedentary life. But Pope St. Gregory the Great had lived under Augustine's rule in that same monastery. When he decided it was time to send missionaries to Anglo-Saxon England, he didn't choose those with restless natures or the young looking for new worlds to conquer. He chose Augustine and thirty monks to make the unexpected, and dangerous, trip to England. Missionaries had gone to Britain years before but the Saxon conquest of England had forced these Christians into hiding. Augustine and his monks were to bring these Christians back into the fold and convince the warlike conquerors to become Christians themselves. Every step of the way they heard the horrid stories of the cruelty and barbarity of their future hosts. By the time they had reached France the stories became so frightening that the monks turned back to Rome. Gregory had heard encouraging news that England was far more ready for Christianity than the stories would indicate, including the marriage of King Ethelbert of Kent to a Christian princess, Bertha. He sent Augustine and the monks on their way again fortified with his belief that now was the time for evangelization. King Ethelbert himself wasn't as sure, but he was a just king and curious. So he went to hear what the missionaries had to say after they landed in England. But he was just as afraid of them as they were of him! Fearful that they would use magic on them, he held the meeting in the open air. There he listened to what they had to say about Christianity. He did not convert then but was impressed enough to let them continue to preach -- as long as they didn't force anyone to convert. They didn't have to -- the king was baptized in 597. Unlike other kings who forced all subjects to be baptized as soon as they were converted, Ethelbert left religious a free choice. Nonetheless the following year many of his subjects were baptized. Augustine was consecrated bishop of the English and more missionaries arrived from Rome to help with the new task. Augustine had to be very careful because, although the English had embraced the new religion they still respected the old. Under the wise orders of Gregory the Great, Augustine aided the growth from the ancient traditions to the new life by consecrating pagan temples for Christian worship and turning pagan festivals into feast days of martyrs. Canterbury was built on the site of an ancient church. Augustine was more successful with the pagans than with the Christians. He found the ancient British Church, which had been driven into Cornwall and Wales, had strayed a little in its practices from Rome. He met with them several times to try to bring them back to the Roman Church but the old Church could not forgive their conquerors and chose isolation and bitterness over community and reconciliation. Augustine was only in England for eight years before he died in 605. His feast day is celebrated on May 26 in England and May 28 elsewhere. He is also known as Austin, a name that many locations have adopted.

Redemptorist Mission Team, is coming to Good Shepherd

Our June parish retreat continues on Tuesday evening, June 18th at 6:30 pm at our St. James site. The emphasis will be on the powerful sacraments of Reconciliation and the Blessing of the Sick. The symbol of this service is the Easter candle.

“May the light of Christ, rising in his glory, dispel the darkness of our hearts and minds. May we, through our faith in Christ, share the light of his glory”. At the end of the service, attendees will have a chance to attend Reconciliation, if they wish. Or, they can proceed to share food and fellowship.

Please mark your calendars and plan to attend this powerful service.

Full Mission Schedule

Sunday, 6/16, 6:30 pm, at St. James – identify our own baptismal call and the life of the Spirit in our lives.

Monday, 6/17, 6:30 pm, at St. Joseph – review the sacraments of vocation (Marriage and Holy Orders), and recommend ourselves to follow Jesus Christ in our particular vocations and lifestyles.

Tuesday, 6/18. 6:30 pm, at St. James – Experience the Reconciliation and Healing offered to us by Jesus Christ

Wednesday, 6/19, at St. Joseph – Embrace the Eucharist as the fiber of our daily lives.

Refreshments and fellowship will follow all services. Call Anne to 268-9930 to arrange child care. No admission fee, but there will be a free-will offering

June 1-2: Family Sunday, Celebrations of June Birthdays and Anniversaries
